A/Professor Leanne Weber, Monash University

Rethinking Border Control for a Globalizing World

In this presentation I provide an overview of a new edited collection ‘Rethinking Border Control for a Globalizing World’, recently published by Routledge. The intention of the book is to provide a new point of departure for thinking critically and creatively about international borders and the perceived need to defend them. The contributors to this inter-disciplinary volume adopt an innovative ‘preferred future’ methodology to critically examine a range of ‘border domains’ including law, citizenship, governance, morality, security, economy, culture and civil society, which provide the means and justification for contemporary border controls. The goal is to locate potential pathways towards the preferred future of ‘peace at the border’, and provide a foundation for moving beyond mere critique of the harm and inequity of border controls to articulate a vision of a differently bordered world.

Leanne Weber is ARC Future Fellow in the Policing of Internal Borders in the School of Social Sciences at Monash University.

Date	Tuesday 12 May, 2015
Time & Location	11am-12pm, Room N402 (4th Floor, Menzies Building, Monash University, Clayton Vic)
RSVP	Online: jude.mcculloch@monash.edu